

Gloucestershire Echo, 'Where I Live '

SHURDINGTON
Saturday 7th November 2009

- Today Saturday 7th there is a meeting of the Midlands Hamster Club in the Century hall. This is held annually and is open to the public. Anyone interested please do go in a have a look at the exhibits on show.
- Last week eight of our Scouts attended the annual Operation Bald Eagle at Ashton under Hill to take part in a weekend of fun and challenges; these included a night exercise. We were very pleased to note on their Bald Eagle website this week that one of our teams placed 4th from over 60 teams from Gloucestershire and Worcestershire. Well done Scouts and adult Leaders who train them to such high standards.
- Anyone interested in the ever popular Social Centre here in Shurdington is invited to attend their Annual General Meeting which will be held in the Millennium Hall on Wednesday 11th November at 7.30pm. Everyone is welcome and refreshments will be served after the meeting.
- Tomorrow Sunday 8th November everyone is invited to join the congregation to take part in the Remembrance Day service in St Paul's church here in the village. The service starts at 9.30am and our Scouts will line up by the church yard at 9.15am to form a guard of honour. As I often remind our Scouts remembrance day is not just for the two World Wars but the ongoing conflicts at which our servicemen and women are involved, especially at the moment Afghanistan and Iraq.
- Some weeks to go yet but if you have any jumble or a few hours free to help, the MS Fayre is taking place on Saturday 21st November. Contact Hazel Chapman for further information.
